

On Apr 25, 2022 you will be tasked to present. You will be given five minutes to present. Your presentation will be graded on the following.

Flow(4 POINTS) - Please ensure that you are properly structuring your presentation and working through it in a logical manner. We want to see what new features you added to the model, or how you improved features we had already added in class.

3-4: It is obvious that you have structured your presentation in a meaningful way. Your analysis and intuition is clear to the audience, and you clearly and effectively communicate your reasoning.

1-2: It is difficult to follow your presentation and at times confuses the audience. You do not logically flow from one idea to the next, and so it can be difficult to understand what you are saying, and where you are coming from.

Justification(4 POINTS) - We need more reasoning as to why you added features, removed features, scaled features, etc. We are no longer at the point where you can simply just drop Nulls, Include outliers, etc. We need reasoning as to what processes we are undertaking to improve model accuracy and their cost.

3-4: You've thought over how to mutate the data for your model, and how the data needs to be input into the model. You've justified any transformations you've made in the dataset, and you've justified your model selection. You've thought about what features need to be brought in, and which can stay out.

1-2: There seems to be little or no reasoning into your decisions, both in model selection and in improving your model.

Comfort(2 POINTS) - We need to be able to clearly explain ourselves and our thoughts. We also have to aim to become better communicators. As we move on with the course, there are going to be many things picked up, and you need to be able to unpack them and understand and explain.

2 Points : Obvious practice has been put in, and there is a comfort level with explaining your thoughts and your model. There are few breaks, and few silences, but the overall pace of the presentation is good, and there is a feeling that you are confident in your process and your project.

1 Point : Long pauses and breaks in the presentation. You often lose your focus and lose your place in the presentation. There is little explained, and little gained from the presentation.
